

The Influence of Dialectal Pronunciation on English Acquisition
An example based on investigation in Baoshan

Zhao Yunmei

Abstract:

In order to know the influence of Chinese dialects on English learning, we analyze the sandhi tones, pitches, pronunciation about Baoshan dialects in the process of communication and the tone features at the end of the sentences. The investigation finds that English learners irrevocably have the accent of Baoshan dialects in English pronunciation. By using the features of Chinese mandarin and some phonemes of Baoshan dialects, it is effective to cope with the problems that the learners bear the features of dialects in English learning.